Nearly thirty years after the end of the Cold War, its legacy and the accompanying Russian-American tension continues to loom large. Russia's access to detailed information on the United States and its allies may not seem so shocking in this day of data clouds and leaks, but long before we had satellite imagery of any neighborhood at a finger's reach, the amount the Soviet government knew about your family's city, street, and even your home would astonish you. Revealing how this was possible, The Red Atlas is the never-before-told story of the most comprehensive mapping endeavor in history and the surprising maps that resulted. From 1950 to 1990, the Soviet Army conducted a global topographic mapping program, creating large-scale maps for much of the world that included a diversity of detail that would have supported a full range of military planning. For big cities like New York, DC, and London to towns like Pontiac, MI and Galveston, TX, the Soviets gathered enough information to create street-level maps. What they chose to include on these maps can seem obvious like locations of factories and ports, or more surprising, such as building heights, road widths, and bridge capacities. Some of the detail suggests early satellite technology, while other specifics, like detailed depictions of depths and channels around rivers and harbors, could only have been gained by actual Soviet feet on the ground. The Red

Atlas includes over 350 extracts from these incredible Cold War maps, exploring their provenance and cartographic techniques as well as what they can tell us about their makers and the Soviet initiatives that were going on all around us. A fantastic historical document of an era that sometimes seems less distant, The Red Atlas offers an uncanny view of the world through the eyes of Soviet strategists and spies.

This proceeding contains selected papers from the National Seminar on "The Role and Strategy of Higher Education through the Results of Research and Community Service Entering the Industrial Age 4.0" which conducted on November 23rd, 2019 in Banjarmasin, Indonesia. This National Seminar was organized by Sari Mulia University, Banjarmasin, Indonesia. This conference accommodates research topics and community service from various aspects such as health, humanities, science and technology. We would like to express our appreciation and gratitude to the invited experts who have provided insights to the participants of this national seminar, as well as the research committee and paper reviewers who have worked hard until there are 95 papers worthy of publication in the NS-UNISM 2019 proceedings. Papers in this proceedings are expected to provide academic benefits, especially in broadening our horizons of understanding in our area of expertise as academics and practitioners. We realize that what we present for this publication is far from perfect. Constructive criticism is welcome for improvement. Finally, I represent the national seminar committee and also on behalf of the Sari Mulia University, Banjarmasin, Indonesia expressing my gratitude for participating and congratulating the publication of the paper in the NS-UNISM 2019. We from the Civitas Academica Sari Mulia University, together with the Committee also want to say thank you so much to all persons who have supported and actively participated in the success of this event. Hopefully this proceeding can be used as a reference in developing academic studies, technology and improving learning activities in the fields of health, humanities, and science and technology. Injury is an increasingly significant health problem throughout the world, accounting for 16 per cent of the global burden of disease. The public health burden of death and disability from injury is particularly notable in low and middle income countries. These guidelines seek to establish practical and affordable standards applicable to injury or trauma care worldwide, whether in rural health posts, small hospitals, hospitals staffed by specialists or tertiary care centres. It sets out a list of key trauma treatment services designed to be achievable in all settings, and defines the various human and physical resources required. It also includes a number of recommendations for methods to promote such standards including training, performance improvement, trauma team organisation and hospital inspection.
