The Difference Between A Transaxle And A Transmission

The key difference between a manual and an automatic transmission is that the manual transmission locks and unlocks different sets of gears to the output shaft to achieve the various gear ratios, while in an automatic transmission, the same set of gears produces all of the different gear ratios. The planetary gearset is the device that makes this possible in an automatic transmission.

A "transaxle" is a combination of a "transmission" and an "axle." An automatic transaxle starts out as a normal automatic transmission, which bolts to the engine's flywheel via a torque converter and a flexplate. Then there's the transmission itself, which houses all the gears and gear-changing mechanisms.
