Endearing illustrations and simple phrases combine in a board book that shows how animal fathers care for their babies with the same tender love as human fathers do.

Sometimes, the things that a child hears about himself or herself is confusing to him or her. That is the case with the young boy in Almond Eyes. As a young child, he is constantly told that he has "beautiful Almond Eyes". He doesn't understand what this means until he asks his mother. She explains that his eyes are shaped like almonds because he is Korean. The boy then notices the different eye shapes of all of his friends. This is a wonderful book about celebrating the differences among friends.

Lots of children want a pet but sometimes moms or dads or grandparents or aunties or uncles don't want a pet. Grandma has a special way of dealing with a dear little boy who wants to have his very own pet. Will this dear boy get a pet from Grandma? And if he doesn't, what's his next clever move? Early readers will enjoy this story.

Sometimes daddies are loud and playful. Other times they are quiet and compassionate. And they are always loving. Sebastien Braun's appealing text and charming illustrations follow a day in the life of a bear and his bear cub in this celebration of the bond between father and child.

Not your typical letter book, this story uses the alphabet to express the hopes and desires we have for every young life. The words engage the reader and the rhythm entertains the young learner. The illustrations complement the story but also offer additional learning opportunities with the use of color, letters and animals. This story is more than just an alphabet book but a celebration of all the wonders of life.
