questions that can make any manager dramatically more effective!

Carpenters have hammers, dentists have picks, and physicians have stethoscopes. It is hard to envision them working without these tools. Managers, too, have

that all managers

how to READ

how to MANAGE
people. With a strong focus on the need to understand
behavior and

The USFA has long been concerned with performance measurement.

Training is a large element in the USFA task ledger and trainers have traditionally been among the group of professionals most concerned with measuring the effectiveness of their work.

Additionally, USFA management has for many years pursued a path of greater management which reflected the overall movement for greater fiscal responsibility and alignment of results with goals throughout government. In 2000, the USFA ET undertook the development of an Assessment System (AS). The

was to assist the USFA in implementing a

processes. The AS was originally developed as a stand-alone system, meant to work with whatever emerging performance management practices were in place at USFA. However, the implementation of the AS was delayed due to unforeseen events. In the intervening eighteen months, many organizational changes took place, including the creation of the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and, under DHS leadership, the implementation of the Planning, Programming, and

Budgeting (PPBS)
performance
management cycle.
The PPBS Cycle is
a critical element
for the accomplishment of the USFA mission
and for the USFA
as a part of DHS. In response to the implementation of the PPBS, the
original AS was

restructured into the Performance
Measurement
Toolkit. The Toolkit
is designed to help USFA managers
and employees
develop consistent
and effective
performance
measures as input
to the PPBS Cycle.

This book is intended as a basis for advanced treatment of concepts in project management. In the current scenario where most questions are answered through the internet, the knowledge element in project management has come under the influence of disruptive technologies. In other words, project managers no longer get 'points' for knowing something that is easily available on the internet. This has far-reaching consequences. The
