Hogfather itself concerns the Discworld, where there are things that control the Universe called The Auditors and they do not like Humans, because Humans are messy. Well, they did invent dullness. And Death is meddling again. His grand-daughter Susan is trying to be normal, but how normal is hitting bogeymen with a poker, really?

This is a 3 hour production of Terry Pratchett's "Hogfather" book in which Death has to take over the job of the Hogfather, the Discworld version of Santa. Despite the fact it was made for TV (on Sky), this is a relatively big budget production with decent special effects and a stellar cast (including heavyweights David Jason, Joss Ackland, David Warner and Ian Richardson). It's pretty funny
