~~Machine a Tinguely~~

As a creator of kinetic works of art, Jean Tinguely counts among the great pioneering artists of the second half of the twentieth century. At the heart of his work was a preoccupation with the machine. What interested him most was how machines work, how they move, the noises they make and their intrinsic poetry.

The 8-foot-long "painting machine" that Tinguely set up at the first Paris Biennale in 1959 produced some 40,000 different paintings for exhibition visitors who inserted a coin in its slot. Tinguely was meanwhile becoming obsessed with the concept of destruction as a means of achieving the "dematerialization" of his works of art. In 1960 he created a sensation with his first large self ...
