Abstract. The relationships between practice, theory and research are complex, interlinked, and influenced by political, economic and social order concerns represented in policy interventions, public scrutiny, accountability, marketisation and globalisation. It is within this complexity that individuals must make their way, responding to day-today challenges and making sense of their experiences.

A theory is a thought, an idea about the way the world works that allows you to predict what will happen if you do something. Practice is doing; what happens when you do the thing. The better the theory, the better the match between your thoughts and predictions and what occurs in practice. Theories are theoretical. Practice is practical.
