Rethinking Work. Swarthmore College Professor Barry Schwartz published an op-ed in last Sunday’s New York Times entitled, “ Rethinking Work. ” The essay begins by noting that a “survey last year found that almost 90 percent of workers were either “not engaged” with or “actively disengaged” from their jobs.”. So 9 out of 10 “workers spend half their waking lives doing things they don’t really want to do in places they don’t particularly want to be.”.

Rethinking equity in the workplace. The hybrid workplace of the future needs to provide equal support to each and every member of a diverse workforce. The authors, experts from design firm Gensler offer some suggestions for accomplishing that. With the death of George Floyd at the hands of the police in the US and the subsequent repercussions felt all around the world, the urgency to rethink the state of diversity, equity and inclusion in our spaces has never been higher.
